

A close-up photograph of dark brown, rich soil. The soil is textured with numerous small, light-colored (tan or beige) clumps and fragments of dried plant matter, possibly roots or stems, scattered throughout. The lighting is natural, highlighting the granular nature of the earth.

Wenn wir Gewalt säen...